Snowstorm Blankets Local Area

A travelers advisory was issued for Western Kentucky after a swirling snowstorm began blanketing the area late this morning.

A possible accumulation of one to two inches of snow has been predicted for the Murray area. The snow should stop falling sometime tonight.

Calloway County Schools were dismissed at 12:30 p. m. today. Supt. William B. Miller said that a determination would be made later this afternoon as to whether or not the school system would be in session on Tuesday.

Miller said that if the snow continues and the temperature remains below freezing the Calloway County Schools would most likely be closed on Tuesday.

Officials of the Murray School System had made no decision at press time today.

Reports of as much as one to one and one-half inches of snow had been reported in Fulton County and other parts of Western Kentucky at noon today.

Motorist were urged to exercise extreme caution and to only venture out if it was absolutely necessary.

Hubbard Supports HUD Grant

WASHINGTON, D. C. — U. S. Congressman Carroll Hubbard noted today that he is in strong support of the efforts of Murray to obtain a Community Development Block Grant from the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

The City of Murray is requesting aid from HUD in the amount of $450,000 for the renovation of a building which would be used as a senior citizens center with the second and third floors utilized as efficiency apartments.

Congressman Hubbard this week contacted Virgil G. Kinnaird, director of the Louisville area office of HUD, to express his personal interest in this project and urge HUD's support.

"The community and economic welfare of the Jackson Purchase area is largely dependent on federal assistance," Hubbard said. "It is my hope that the Department of Housing and Urban Development will provide funding and contribute toward this city's efforts at improving itself."

Paducah Firemen Vote 'Job Action'

PADUCAH, Ky. (AP) — Firefighters in Paducah have voted to take "job action" unless their request for a contract with the city is granted.

The 87-member Professional Firefighters Union Local 168 voted at a meeting Sunday and a union source said the men "were lined up 99 per cent in favor of taking action" in the wage dispute.

Planning Commission Sets Special Meeting

The Murray Planning Commission will hold a special meeting tomorrow at seven p.m. in the City Hall to present a special report of a survey conducted in relationship to the zoning of 12th Street.

The survey was conducted by Cheryl Havens, a Murray State University graduate student. Another report on the Community Development Project will also be given, according to city planner Dan Grimes.

Scrutiny Of Budget Begun By Legislature

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Kentucky legislators were to begin scrutinizing Gov. Julian Carroll's proposed $5.7 billion budget today.

And with the start of the budget review process, the pace of legislative activity is expected to pick up.

Today marks the 20th legislative day of the 60-day session, and with a third of the session gone, legislators have passed six Senate bills out of more than 150 introduced, and 20 of the nearly 400 House bills filed so far.

Legislative leaders say now that they have the governor's budget proposals they will be able to move more quickly.

The chairmen of the Appropriations and Revenue committees in the House and Senate have both stressed the necessity of getting the budget bill to the floors of both Houses as early as possible.

Senate Appropriations and Revenue Chairman Delbert Murphy, D-Owensboro said he hopes the budget review process can be finished in two weeks. Rep. Joe Clarke, D-Danville, chairman of the House Appropriations and Revenue Committee, would like to see the review process wrapped up within a month.

Both acknowledge that any delay on the bill could stall measures which depend on funding.

"Everything has to be held up until the money aspect is clarified," Clarke said. "This creates a serious logjam at the close of the session."

The House and Senate committee hearings on the budget were scheduled to begin today. State Revenue Department officials have been asked to explain how they arrived at their estimates of the state's anticipated revenue receipts for the next two years.

On succeeding days, agency heads will appear before the committee to explain their budget requests.

Also on the agenda today is a special meeting of the Labor and Industry Committee, to be held after the House adjourns. The committee is supposed to take up a bill that would give public employees the right to organize and bargain collectively.

The measure under consideration, HB 300, was introduced by Rep. Norbert Blume, D-Louisville, a Teamsters official and the former House speaker.

His bill contains a provision for binding arbitration, but does not have a no-strike clause. Observers say the governor is unlikely to sign any public employee collective bargaining bill that does not contain a no-strike clause.

Also on today's calendar were a hearing on a bill to repeal Kentucky's fair trade law as it applies to the sale of milk, and an afternoon hearing on a measure that would permit the teaching of the Biblical theory of

Phil The Groundhog Sees Shadow, Returns To Hole

PUNXSUTAWNEY, Pa. (AP) — Phil, the groundhog who made Punxsutawney famous, emerged from an electrically heated burrow in subzero weather today and saw his shadow — a sign that winter weather is in store for at least six more weeks.

Phil's forecast came as the sun rose in clear but chilly skies. Although the temperature hovered at minus-10 degrees, members of the Punxsutawney Groundhog Club's inner circle watched Phil emerge from hibernation.

Legend has it that if the groundhog sees his shadow on Feb. 2, winter will last another six weeks. If the sky is cloudy and there is no shadow, spring is supposed to be just around the corner.

Some skeptics, mostly from out of state, have claimed that Phil actually came out of hibernation a week ago and that today's ceremony was staged by the Punxsutawney Groundhog Club and its leader, Sam Light. Those skeptics point out that the celebrated burrow is wired for heat — at the advice of zoo consultants — to prompt Phil's exit.

Those same skeptics might suggest that Phil, and his mate Phillis, actually spend the year in the comfortable surroundings of the Punxsutawney Groundhog Museum, where they live on a diet of dog food.

But Light insists everything is on the up and up. "That's a bunch of malarkey," he says of the skeptics' claims, noting that Phil's predictions make the Congressional Record each year. "If the government recognizes it, who's the average Joe to say it isn't so?"

For the past quarter century, Light has approached Phil's Gobbler's Nob burrow each Feb. 2, dressed in top hat and tails, and rapped on the door with his acacia wood cane. According to tradition, Phil then emerges from his winter's sleep.

Light, 79, was hospitalized with broken ribs this year and Charles Erhard took his place. Erhard is Director of Groundhogese Communication.

Groundhog Day has its roots in European history and is tied to the Christian festival of Candlemas. An old saying goes, "If Candlemas be fair, there'll be two winters in the year."

It also is connected to the Pennsylvania Dutch legend that the hedgehog is the weather forecaster. Phil isn't a hedgehog, but he has 90 years of experience.

Deborah Fay Cathey Becomes Bride Of Michael P. McClain

Mrs. Michael Pickard McClain

The sanctuary of the Memorial Baptist Church was the setting for the wedding of Miss Deborah Fay Cathey, daughter of Mrs. Mary B. Cathey and Leon Cathey of Murray, to Michael Pickard McClain, son of Mr. and Mrs. Prentice McClain of Mayfield.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Jerrell White on Saturday, December 27, at 7:30 p.m.

Ron Hampton, organist, presented a program of nuptial music including the traditional wedding marches for the processional and the recessional.

The altar was centered with an arched brass candelabrum entwined with holly and flanked on either side by greenery and spiral candelabra entwined with holly. The family pews were marked with hurricane lamps and red velvet bows. The church windows held arrangements of candles and holly.

Bride's Dress
The bride, escorted to the altar by her father and given in marriage by her parents, wore a formal gown of candlelight satepeau and velvet lace. The fitted bodice was encrusted with lace and featured a sweetheart neckline accented with lace. The long tapered sleeves or organza were edged with lace motifs at the wrists. The skirt, overlaid with organza, bordered with lace, extended into a chapel length train.

The complete ensemble the bride wore a lace headpiece with an attached veil of organza encircled with lace. She carried a cluster bouquet of white carnations, red sweetheart roses, greenery, baby's breath, and white satin streamers tied in love knots.

Attending the bride as maid of honor was her sister, Miss Linda Kay Cathey of Memphis, Tenn., who wore a formal gown of red velvet with a long sleeved lace bolero jacket.

Miss Kelly Cathey, niece of the bride, served as junior bridesmaid. She wore a floor length gown of red velvet designed similar to that of the maid of honor.

Both the maid of honor and junior bridesmaid carried bouquets of candy striped carnations.

Terry West of Vienna, Ill., served the groom as best man. Groomsman was Clay McClain, brother of the groom. Ushers were Larry West of Vienna, Ill., and Kent McClain of Mayfield.

Mrs. Cathey, mother of the bride, chose to wear a floor length gown of turquoise knit. Mrs. McClain, mother of the groom, was attired in a formal gown of brown velvet. Both wore cymbidium orchids. The grandmothers were presented carnation corsages.

Reception
Following the ceremony a reception was held in the fellowship hall of the church.

The bride's table was overlaid with white net over white caught up at the corners with nosegays of candy striped carnations and red velvet bows. Centering the table was the three tiered wedding cake topped with

GFWC Bicentennial Fourth Plate Issued In Project

Mrs. Carroll E. Miller, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, the largest organization of women in the world, has announced the issuance of the fourth commemorative plate which completes the GFWC Official United States of America Bicentennial Commemorative Project.

The 1976 plate, "Proclaim liberty throughout all the land," features three jubilant Americans ringing the Liberty Bell, one of the most cherished and revered symbols of American freedom. "This final plate," Mrs. Miller said,

"will be available through local Women's Clubs across the nation by the first part of February. It pleases us that women from nearly every club in America are participating in this exciting project." Local Women's Clubs affiliated with the GFWC are the "exclusive agents" to sell the plates.

Both Murray and Hazel Woman's Clubs are affiliated with the GFWC.

Four years ago, in an effort to celebrate our Nation's Bicentennial and to rekindle the wondrous "Spirit of '76" the GFWC commissioned an American artist to sculpture in glass a series of four collector's plates. Each plate features a scene depicting one of the four major movements of the American Revolution and, in their entirety, depict a complete and moving "Portrait of Liberty."

These beautiful handmade commemorative plates are designed and produced for the GFWC by the Fenton Art Glass Company of Williamstown, West Virginia, and a new design has been released each year for four consecutive years (1973-1974-1975-1976).

Mrs. Miller explained that the first plate each year for the four year program has been presented to the Nation's First Lady for display at the White House. "In addition," Mrs. Miller added, "we are proud that the Freedoms Foundation has accepted our "Official" Bicentennial Plates for permanent display at Valley Forge, Pennsylvania." On July 4, 1976 clubwomen will gather at Independence Hall for a final ceremony when the moulds of the plates will be publicly destroyed, thereby creating a limited edition. Mrs. Miller commented, "This means that not only will the plates become treasured heirlooms with great personal value, but their market value is sure to increase as well."

In closing Mrs. Miller said, "We believe that our Bicentennial Plate Commemorative Project has been the most successful nationwide program to celebrate our country's 200th Birthday. We are proud that these plates will serve as lasting reminders of this historic anniversary and that they will, for years to come, rekindle the spirit of those brave patriots who established the greatest country the world has every known."

Periodontal Disease

Research at Cornell University is revealing a previously unsuspected cause of periodontal or gum disease, which is responsible for loss of teeth in millions of older people.

The disease causes the gums and underlying bone to shrink, allowing the teeth to loosen in their sockets. It appears that the initial cause lies in the bony structure in which the teeth are imbedded rather than in the gums, and that it is a problem of poor nutrition rather than poor dental hygiene.

Lennart Krook, D.V.M., Ph.D.; Leo Lutwak, M.D., Ph.D.; and other researchers initially found that osteolysis (bone resorption) was present in patients with periodontal disease whom they examined. In a nutritional survey, they discovered that the average daily calcium intake for a group of 10 patients was less than half the Recommended Dietary Allowance.

After six months of calcium supplementation, inflammation of the gums was reduced in all 10 patients and had disappeared in three. Seven of the eight patients who had loose teeth showed improvement and X-rays revealed actual filling-in of pockets around the roots of the teeth with new bone. In another study patients on calcium supplements showed improvement in bone density.

On the basis of these findings, Dr. Krook and Dr. Lutwak believe that the adult requirement for calcium should be increased. Since it is known that increased intake of calcium increases the requirements for zinc and magnesium, the two men also suggest that these minerals be included in treating periodontal disease.

Milk and milk products, beans, nuts and dried fruit are all good sources of calcium. Since phosphorus interferes with absorption of calcium, eating large amounts of meat can create a calcium deficiency. (Beef, for example, has 22 times as much phosphorus as calcium.) For animals, which also eat bones, this is no problem, but meat-eating human beings need to be sure their calcium intake is adequate.

More on Lawsuit Surgery

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1976 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am sorry for SERIOUS IN N.Y., who is considering suing his parents for $100,000 for having him circumcised while he was a helpless infant and unable to fight back. He claims that he was "disfigured," which is hardly valid, because most of us wear sufficient clothing so that no one will know whether we are circumcised or not.

When I was born, 73 years ago, circumcision was not very popular, and I doubt that my parents, who lived on a minister's salary, even considered it. I fervently wish that they had circumcised me because much of my life I have had trouble.

In the years before men wore clothing, the foreskin provided some protection. Perhaps if nudism comes in, circumcision will go out.

RETIRED MINISTER, ASHVILLE, N.C.

DEAR ABBY: As a dull-witted Englishman, the "brotherly love" characterized by the American people who sue each other on the slightest pretext is still beyond my comprehension. I refer to that SERIOUS male moron who wants to sue his parents for having had him circumcised when he was an infant. Well, now I have heard everything! May I inform "Serious" that circumcision is not only practiced by the Jewish people, but also among the male members of the English royal family? Yours truly,

JOHN R.

DEAR ABBY: I hope that man in N.Y. sues his parents and collects the $100,000. I, for one, am opposed to any kind of surgery unless it is absolutely necessary. There is entirely too much chopping up these days, and the one who benefits most, of course, is the doctor.

If the good Lord had meant for males to be born without foreskins, He would have made them that way. It is an insult to God to try to improve on His work.

SERVANT OF GOD

DEAR ABBY: Please tell SERIOUS IN N.Y. that here in Jefferson County, Ky., it would be against the law for him to exhibit his "disfigurement."

RUSSELL MC DANIEL
CHIEF OF POLICE

DEAR ABBY: The 32-year-old fellow who wants to sue his parents for having circumcised him should have his head examined. I have been circumcised (doctor's orders), and I am over 60! It is embarrassing and not an operation one can boast about in one's old age.

A friend of mine told me that years ago, he and his fraternity brother got liquored up and "circumcised" each other. They ran into a lot of trouble and had to hunt up a urologist for repairs shortly afterwards.

It's best to have it done in infancy.

AN OLD MAN

DEAR ABBY: So SERIOUS IN N.Y. wants to sue his parents for having him circumcised, thereby "maiming and disfiguring" him. Well then, why not sue parents for having their children vaccinated? That also leaves a scar, doesn't it?

By MRS. W. P. WILLIAMS

One of the prettiest pictures I have seen is one on the front of my favorite Garden Magazine. There are yellow crocus in full bloom sticking out from the snow. It was somehow a promise, a sign of hope, a reminder that spring will come, that it always does and we have so much to look forward to.

And have you ever seen so many birds? Birds of every kind and color and size. And we are all so glad to see the Grosbeaks back this year. Last winter they never showed up, but they are here by the dozens with their pretty coloring and cheery chirping. I love to watch the cardinals as they are so brightly colored.

As I sit here looking out at the feeders, there is a big fat dove greedily helping himself. He has stayed so long I am afraid he won't be able to fly away. Several Blue Jays are in one feeder and six Grosbeaks in another. A pair of birds I do not recognize have been with me several days. And in between all these are the Catbirds, Purple Finches, Sparrows and always lurking around waiting for his chance is the squirrel.

They are all so busy and cheerful, and so glad to get a handout. That is the least we can do. Just put out a handful of seed or even bread crumbs and see how they will cluster around.

If you want any new shrub this spring, or intend to plant more annuals, select what you want and plan where to put them. These warmer days that will be coming more often from now on, are ideal for walking around in the yard. I ask a walk this morning, the sun is shining and even a stiff breeze doesn't feel too cool. I have been rather shut in during the severe weather and it is good to get out in the fresh air and especially good when I can see evidences of swelling buds, stirring in the ground of such things as crocus and narcissus.

What a wonderful season this is. Cold, yes, but the knowledge that warm weather will soon be here, and actually there is a feeling in the air that is different from any other time of the year. I think anticipation is an essential to real enjoyment. So until we can plant and reap the harvest of our work, let's enjoy looking forward to it. We can make our summer much more pleasant by getting ready for it now. Catalogues are so beautiful and full of ideas that they can be a big help. Let them help you decide what to do.

Carroll's Budget

By S. C. Van Curon

FRANKFORT + Gov. Julian Carroll's record $5.7 billion budget has a whopping $319 million in it without specific instructions now spelled out how and where it is to be spent.

That apparently will come in later bills or be left to the discretion of priority needs in the future two years.

The biggest single item is $245 million for capital construction. In some cases the governor laid down in general terms some construction projects including a new Justice building and a building to accommodate the Department of Natural Resources and Environmental protection, but the specifics haven't been spelled out as yet. This apparently must go through the planning sages with the branches of government involved and the engineering division of the Department of Finance.

In this budget address he said each construction project must have "budget justification based on program needs." Completion of each depends on "factors involving the development of more accurate programming and construction cost estimates, assessments of program needs and the availability of funds."

As always departments, colleges and education didn't get what they requested in their budgets, but most seem to be pleased with what they did get.

The second large sum in this $319 million is $48 million for economic development. The program hasn't been described by the governor, but some later legislation may come along and spell it out. He indicated some areas in the state need helping, and indicated some of it would be used in Eastern Kentucky.

This gave some hope to coal county legislators that they might get some project money for their areas. He still has made no commitment about distributing severance tax, or a portion of it to the coal producing counties.

All available money is included in the $5.7 billion, with no sharing provision for the coal producing counties. The third largest is $18 million to increase employee pay over the next two years, but no definite decision has been made on how it will be spread around. Ones on the lower end of the state pay scale are hoping for an increase to meet the continual rise in the cost of living.

There is also $8 million in his budget document to pay people for a portion of their losses in the defunct Prudential Building and Loan Association. It supposedly is to be apportioned out on a sliding scale basis with the smaller investors getting a greater percentage of their losses returned.

The governor's action on this score is hailed as a humane action and indicating the idea that the state should share part of the blame since Prudential wasn't watched as closely as it should have been by the Department of Banking.

One thing to note about this $8 million, it is in the governor's budget document, but not in the budget bill. This is to be introduced as a separate measure. In other words, it's just a promise up to now.

Legislators from the coal producing areas would have liked for the governor to have returned a fixed portion of the severance tax to them, but now they must hunt another route.

The Supreme Court hasn't given any decision on the franchise tax voted by Pike County. The tax levied is 10 cents per ton if the court approves legality of the action. Legislators would like the franchise tax to be credited against the state severance tax.

BUSINESS MIRROR

Should Society Be Open Or Closed?

NEW YORK (AP) — Whether we should have an open or a closed society is now one of those enormous ideological themes that now and then moves from the world of academe directly into the daily public debate.

There are those who hold that the workings of government must, of necessity, be secret. And there is a counter-argument that secrecy breeds corruption.

There are those, for example, who say the nation's intelligence operations should be an open book, to be read for profit not only by insiders but by the general public and potential adversaries too.

And there is a school that defends intelligence secrecy as the only way to protect a society we call free and open from blundering into mistakes that, it is feared, could undermine every other lofty idea.

Data, facts and activities that once were withheld "in the public interest" have now been pried loose from the Internal Revenue Service, the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the business establishment, the investment community, the White House and other institutions and are now public knowledge.

A Freedom of Information Act prevents government from withholding certain information. And public interest groups now employ staffs whose job is to open up the system to examination and use by the public.

In almost all instances the prying has revealed information that many people consider shocking, and therefore each inquiry seems to generate another. And now the pressure is on the banks.

Disclosure of information about the nation's banking system always has been handled with great sensitivity, restraint and secrecy, the rationale being that public confidence must be maintained even if problems are hidden.

Asked if recent disclosures of sometimes shaky finances, poor judgment and questionable management practices in banking has hurt rather than helped the country, a member of the Federal Reserve Board privately suggested the public was hurt.

The news media, he said, has made it more difficult for banks to lend. If they know that reports of their internal activities will be scrutinized by the public rather than restricted to certain federal officials, they will be reluctant to make some loans. And, he concluded, the economy will be hurt. But, he was asked, didn't the massive loan losses incurred by some banks lead to higher interest rates? Didn't banks cover their losses by raising prices? And therefore, wasn't the public damaged?

He agreed. But he went on to say the media remains at fault because of what he called its "snapshot" views of highly technical, complicated and changing matters. The story is a continuing one, he said, and requires a series of pictures.

That suggestion appears likely to be followed up, partly because congressional interest also is aroused in what goes on in the private world of high finance, where little is done that does not have a public impact.

Sensing The News

By ANTHONY HARRIGAN

Executive Vice President

United States Industrial Council

TODAY'S TOPIC: U. S. SECURITY THREATENED

The United States lost the war in Vietnam in part because of the aura of defeat created by hostile network and Washington media. The U. S. today is suffering and experiencing reverses on a global scale because of the actions of the anti-security elements in Congress.

Day by day, the headlines tell of fresh Soviet gains, including USSR's extraordinary success in supporting a proxy regime in Angola. Cuban troops are airlifted from the Caribbean to Angola and, using Soviet battlefield equipment, including rockets and tanks, establish a bastion in that former Portuguese province from which the Soviet Union will be able to dominate the oil route to Europe and North America. Soviet naval vessels move into Angolan waters, and no one in authority mentions the possibility of a counter-deployment by the U. S. Navy.

Wherever one looks, the United States and the Western cause generally is in retreat. The NATO alliance is in almost total disarray. Portugal is on the brink of a communist takeover. Greece and Turkey are openly hostile to the United States. Many former allies are aware of the changed balance of power and the lack of will on the part of the American government and people.

The American people apparently do not realize that the world sees the United States as a "paper tiger." American military power is immense, but the will to use it in defense of vital American interests is not evidenced. Moreover, the anti-security elements in the Congress have tied the hands of the President.

Believers in freedom elsewhere in the world are shocked and alarmed at the attempts to undermine and dismantle U. S. security institutions such as the Central Intelligence Agency.

The Times of London recently had this to say about the attacks on the CIA: "Americans who would abolish or cripple the CIA are either motivated by a rival ideology or are suffering from that touching but dangerous form of American innocence which can do as much damage as the CIA itself." The Times pointed out that "information is necessary and espionage is unavoidable" in a "very imperfect world."

The way things now stand, the U. S. government is prevented from acting against Soviet aggression either in an overt or covert manner. Members of Congress such as Sen. Dick Clark of Iowa seem more exercised about the possibility of U. S. involvement in Angola than about the reality of Soviet intervention. His colleague from Iowa, Sen. John C. Culver, is the leader of the congressional effort to prevent construction of an essential naval supply facility in the Indian Ocean where the Soviets maintain a large naval squadron. Sen. Frank Church of Idaho directs the witch-hunt against the Central Intelligence Agency.

Such activities expose the American people to the greatest peril. While the continental United States has great resources, the American people depend on certain raw materials and energy from remote regions. The security of the sea lanes around Africa, for example, are vital to the American people, for they depend on oil from the Persian Gulf. Interruption of the oil supply would have a devastating impact on the U. S. economy, as Americans know from their brief experience with the oil embargo.

Furthermore, if the Soviets dominate Africa, as they very clearly intend to do, they certainly will not ignore the oil-rich countries of the Persian Gulf. These countries will be unable to resist Soviet domination without strong American backing.

The communist design for the world has revealed more than a half century ago. It involves step-by-step control of the world countryside, so to speak, until the capitalist heartland — the United States and a handful of Northern European countries, Australia and Japan — are isolated and surrounded. In short, the Soviets intend to be the arbiters of the destiny of Americans and other free people.

Unless Americans demonstrate anew their determination to oppose aggression and their will to win and maintain their liberty, their freedom and independence will not endure. But the American people cannot make a convincing demonstration of their love of liberty and independence so long as Congress is dominated by defeatists, appeasers and know-nothings bent on destroying U. S. security organizations.

Answer: The laws and regulations of Social Security are passed by Congress, the same as all other laws. The Social Security administration's job is to administer these laws and regulations.

If you have a complaint or disagreement with any Social Security laws, you should not condemn the people working for Social Security because they do not make these rulings. You should write a letter to your congressman voicing your displeasure with the laws and ask him to start action on changing them.

Heartline: Is Heartline a branch of the federal government or in any way connected to a government department? — N.F.

Answer: No, Heartline is a private enterprise with no connection to the federal government. Heartline receives no federal funds or grants and is in no way regulated by any governmental agency. Heartline does work with various governmental agencies in an effort to aid America's elderly.

Heartline: I have braces on my legs which tend to make my pants wear out faster. I have to wear these braces due to an injury I had in the service. I am now receiving a pension from the V.A. due to my service-connected disability. Am I eligible for any additional benefits from the V.A.? — J.K.

Answer: Yes, you are eligible for a $150 annual clothing allowance payment. This is payable to any veteran who receives compensation for a service-connected disability for which he wears or uses one or more prosthetic or orthopedic appliance (including a wheelchair). The V.A. will make a determination on this if it tends to wear out or tear clothing. Application for this benefit is made at your local V.A. office.

Isn't It The Truth

The leaders of both houses of Congress are thinking of establishing a think tank there. If such an unthinkable thing comes to pass, we citizens had better watch out. A committee of thinkers may try to introduce a law that would, for example, try to change the pattern of waste-making — like having our wives turn off the stove before cooking, or making us eat the skin and throw away the banana.

Trifocals Aid Intermediate Vision

By F.J.L. Blasingame, M.D.

BLASINGAME

Benjamin Franklin allegedly helped to create bifocal spectacles and to popularize them. They aided his near vision in reading and in eating.

This aid is accomplished by thickening the lower part of the lens or adding a second portion so as to increase the effect that the lens has on the incoming light from nearby objects.

If distant vision needs no correction, the upper part of the lens may be only smooth glass or plastic. However, if the person has astigmatism (an irregularity to the eyeball so that things in focus in one plane may be blurred in another), hyperopia (far-sightedness), or myopia (near-sightedness), an appropriate correction is essential in the upper part of the lens used for looking at objects 20 feet or more from the observer.

In more recent years, and with improved design and manufacture of glasses or spectacles, the trifocal lens has become popular. As the name implies, the lens is made up of three portions — a lower one for near vision, an upper for distance viewing, and a middle one for intermediate vision.

This middle part is useful to the wearer if he is a musician and needs to read music while playing his instrument and wants to stand or sit upright yet be able to see clearly the written music before him. In card-playing, the cards in the hand can be seen through the lower lens, while those on the table can be viewed through the middle lens. Such intermediate views are helpful in shopping, serving and many other occasions — for example, reading the instrument panel on your automobile while driving.

The wearer brings the appropriate lens into use by slight up-and-down movement of the head. He soon learns to do so automatically and without the movement being apparent to other persons.

When a person begins wearing trifocals, he must be cautious in walking up and down stairs until he is accustomed to the appropriate tilt of his head. Otherwise, the step may appear nearer or more distant, depending on which part of the lens he is using. Such false reading of the distance may cause a stumble or a tumble.

Once accustomed to the use of trifocals, the user finds them aiding greatly in his vision for intermediate distances.

Q Mr. E.N. asks the meaning of an exercise electrocardiogram (E.C.G.).

A: The traditional E.C.G. is made while resting. If the results are normal, and if the physician suspects that the patient has heart disease, an E.C.G. can be made during exercise. If the blood supply to the heart muscle is inadequate to supply the higher demands during exercise, the E.C.G. may show abnormal changes. They indicate a low heart reserve. Further studies may be needed of the coronary circulation, and the program of treatment has to adjust to the abnormal findings.

Q Mrs. A.D. has been recently troubled by recurrent twitching of an eyelid and asks for comment.

A: Recurrent episodes of twitching may mean that you are consuming too much caffeine in coffee, tea or colas. If so, you should reduce your intake. If not, you may have a visual error, and you should see an eye specialist for a checkup on your vision.

North Win Streak Snapped By Tigers

By MIKE BRANDON
Ledger & Times Sports Editor

Nicky Swift has accomplished a lot in his young sports career: he's gone to the finals of the Punt, Kick and Pass Contest, played on an undefeated football team and has been a horse on the boards all during the basketball season.

But what he did Saturday afternoon at Murray Middle School will never be forgotten by his teammates or North Calloway.

Swift's big steal with just 18 seconds left in overtime turned defeat into victory as Murray Middle slipped past previously undefeated North 34-32.

Terry Paschall, North's outstanding center, scored on an eight-footer with 1:08 left in the overtime to put the Lakers on top 32-31. With 47 seconds left in the game, guard Rich Rollins fired up a 15-footer for the Tigers and it missed the mark.

The Lakers got the rebound and went into a freeze. Behind the fine ballhandling of guards Guy Furr and Kerry Lamb, the Lakers seemed as if they would be able to hang on to the ball. But suddenly, Swift popped up from nowhere and used his big height advantage to pick off a pass.

Swift drove in unchallenged for the layup and the Tigers led 33-32. Timmy Graham of North was fouled with eight seconds left but he missed his free throw and Murray Middle rebounded.

North immediately fouled and Bob Daniel hit the front end of the one-plus to make it 34-32. Guess who got the rebound on the second shot: Swift. And that sealed up the win and left the Tigers with a final season record of 9-4.

It also avenged an earlier loss; when North and Murray Middle played back in early December, the Lakers won a 53-44 contest. Murray defeated every team on the schedule at least once during the season.

Swift led the scoring for Murray Middle with 14 points and he hauled down 19 rebounds. Nick Hibbard had 10 points and 11 rebounds.

For the Lakers, Paschall paced the scoring with 14 points. Keith Edwards had seven rebounds as did Lamb while Paschall grabbed off six.

North was coasting along with a 16-8 early in the second quarter. But Swift soon began to dominate the boards on both ends and by intermission, North led just 18-15.

The first lead in the game for Murray Middle came at the 3:40 mark of the third period when Bob Daniel hit on a three-point play to put the Tigers up 22-20.

The lead went up to as much as six points, 28-22, before Paschall hit a 15-footer to end the third period.

Murray Middle went scoreless in the last period until when with 1:15 left, Swift hit on an offensive rebound and that tied the game at 30 apiece.

North had possession of the ball with a minute left in regulation play and held the ball until five seconds when Paschall put up a 15-footer that barely missed the mark.

"North is by far the best team we have played this year," said Tiger Coach Lee Hook.

"They are a good group of kids. I thought one of the keys in the game for us was our ability to handle their press. It didn't hurt us at all. Plus we forced them to take a lot of outside shots and that was another big key."

"Rich Rollins did a great job running our offense for us and working the ball inside to Swift and Hibbard," Hook added.

The loss drops North to 9-1 on the season.

"We thought we had the game won," North Coach Johnny Gingles said.

"We had the chance to win it with the one and one but there was a lot of pressure. Murray played a good game. We couldn't get the ball inside."

"One of the keys for us was Keith Edwards got in foul trouble in the first quarter. He didn't play in the second quarter and then when he came back in the third quarter, he had to play extremely careful," Gingles added.

In the seventh grade contest, Murray Middle won 34-28 over North. The victory closes the Tiger season at 7-5.

The third quarter was the difference in the game. Murray, which went into the locker room tied up at 17 all at intermission, outscored North 10-2 in the third period.

One of the main reasons for the third period success was the super defense by Todd Bradshaw. At one point in the frame, he stole the ball four successive times.

Greg Schanbacher paced the scoring for Murray with 10 points while Bradshaw added nine and Gary Sims eight. Schanbacher had 11 rebounds for Murray Middle while Howie Crittenden had six.

For North, Sibby Colson was the leading scorer with 10 points. Kelly Rogers pulled down 11 rebounds for the Lakers while Colson grabbed six. North's seventh grade team, which played one of its best games of the season, falls to 2-7.

Mayfield Gets Upset Victory Over Marshals

Mayfield, rapidly improving with just about every game, stunned host Marshall County 70-69 Saturday night at Benton in a double overtime.

Marshall County trailed at each quarter stop and at intermission, the Cardinals held a 39-31 cushion. Going into the final frame, the Cardinals held a slim 55-51 lead.

Even though they missed seven free throws in the last frame, Marshall County managed to catch the Cardinals and forced the game into an extra period, where each team scored two points. Then in the second overtime, Marshall County was outscored 4-3 and Mayfield had recorded the upset win.

Marshall County played the game without the services of 6-4 junior ace forward Greg Schwinghammer who was injured in the win over Paducah Tilghman a week earlier.

Larry Schaper paced the scoring for the Marshals with 18 points while David Reed had 16 and Mike Rosa 14. For Mayfield, five players scored in twin figures with Eric Berhow getting 14; Don Hubbard, Jeff Hill and Joey Shelton 12 apiece and guard Glenn Mitchell 11.

The Marshals fall to 9-7 on the season and will entertain Ballard Memorial Tuesday in a contest to be played at South Marshall.

Mayfield is now an even 8-8 on the campaign and will host the Bombers Friday night.

Bullets Finally Snap Skid And Get Revenge On Warriors

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

A big win? For the Washington Bullets, any win over the Golden State Warriors is a big one.

"After losing six straight to them, this has to be considered a big win for us," said Washington guard Phil Chenier, thinking back in particular to the way the Warriors embarrassed the favored Bullets with a four-game sweep in last May's National Basketball Association finals.

Sunday's tense 101-99 triumph certainly didn't erase the memory of that playoff disaster, but it did get the Bullets thinking positively again.

"A lot of people said they had us psyched out," said Washington's Dave Bing. "Hey, they're a good basketball team — their record proves it. But we think we're a good team too, and maybe we proved that today."

Chenier was the game's top scorer with 26 points. Rick Barry and Phil Smith had 22 points apiece for the Warriors, Barry getting a dozen in the final period.

Hawks 84, Bulls 80
Atlanta built a 49-33 half-time lead, saw Chicago rally to pull in front 76-74 with five minutes left, caught up with the Bulls at 80-80 and then held them scoreless over the last 3:25. Tom Henderson scored the go-ahead basket with two minutes left, then Lou Hudson added an insurance bucket at the buzzer.

John Drew led the way for Atlanta with 34 points, including 12 of his team's 16 points in the final period.

Celtics 114, Pistons 109
Charlie Scott scored 29 points and Dave Cowens got 11 of his 27 in the final period as Boston overcame a six-point deficit and posted its sixth consecutive victory.

Jazz 96, Cavaliers 95
Pete Maravich scored 36 points, including four layups in the final three minutes as the Jazz overcame a 91-86 deficit with 3:37 to go. Cleveland's Jim Chones missed a 10-footer in the closing seconds.

The loss dropped Cleveland one game behind first-place Washington in the NBA's Central Division.

Blazers 107, Bucks 97
Portland posted its sixth consecutive victory behind 26-point efforts by Geoff Petrie and Sidney Wicks. Milwaukee led 53-48 early in the second half before a 12-4 spurt put the Blazers ahead to stay.

Lakers 103, 76ers 82
Kareem Abdul-Jabbar scored 27 points, including 15 in the fourth quarter, as Los Angeles handed Philadelphia its fourth straight loss. The Lakers outscored the 76ers 30-11 during a 13-minute stretch of the second half to break it open.

Racer Women Finish Second In Track Meet

"Basically, we ran all freshmen and sophomore," Coach Margaret Simmons said.

"Our freshman kids were all used to winning in high school. They were just shocked and awed by the strength of college performers."

"But we are going to improve. We have about seven girls who are either on the basketball team or injured and when they get back, we should be okay," Simmons added.

Kathy and Carol Schafer will be running in the Mason-

Dixon Games this coming weekend in Louisville.

On the 21st, the Racers will be running in the Memphis Classic.

Western Blows Murray Off Diddle Arena Floor

By STEVE W. GIVENS

Ledger & Times Sports Writer
Like the frequent trains which steamed past E.A. Diddle Arena in the night, Western Kentucky chugged and pulled until it found open track and then powered to a 92-68 Ohio Valley Conference win over Murray State last Saturday.

The Hilltoppers used five double-digit scoring performances and a pair of well-timed departures in each half to grab their fifth league win against a single setback to remain tied in first with Austin Peay for the OVC title chase.

Coach Jim Richards' squad, 11-5 overall, did not build an advantage until 8:08 showed remaining in the first half when the 'Toppers pumped in four consecutive baskets to change a 22-20 game into a more comfortable 10 point edge.

WKU had everyone pouring coal into its fires during that series, but no two players earned the affection of the spirited 12,600 than senior guard Johnny Britt and freshman center Lloyd Terry. Little needs to be said about the first of these two, Britt, whose efforts have victimized the league for four years, but the other, Terry, is considerably more mysterious.

Britt sacked (ho-hum) 17 points, two below his seasonal average, but Terry romped for a career-high 18 markers on a sizzling eight of 10 floor attempts and made everyone forget about regular WKU starting center James Johnson.

It might be worthwhile to note Terry's efforts were a mere 12 above his average in order to give you the idea of the type of luck the 'Toppers were having...a wide open track.

WKU was lead by forward Wilson James' 12 of 18 razzle-dazzle from the floor, seven above his average, which kept the Racers, now 2-4 in the OVC and 6-10 overall, off balance during most of the action.

Five minutes into the action after nearly everyone had the opportunity to foul, it was 4-2 WKU before the squads built the contest's three remaining deadlocks and then saw-sawed. Guard Chuck Rawlings broke the action open when he stole a Racer pass and fed forward Wilson James for a lay-up. Seconds later, the fourth 'Topper senior starter, forward Mike Warner, slipped a left-handed lay-up to make it 12-8.

Murray never lead in the contest, but behind the dependable play of standout senior forward Jesse Williams, leading Racer scorer with 22, and the hustle of freshman forward Victor Jordon, MSU kept within two of the hosts until 8:08 showed in the half.

Britt set up two scores during that blitz with steals, while Terry accounted for the other pair in a series which made one side of the 'Topper crowd dizzy with red towel waving.

MSU came alive a minute after Williams connected from the left side and junior guard Grover Woolard hit a pair of free throws to make it 30-24, but Warner and James teamed to slap six more WKU markers on the board to preserve the advantage.

The Hilltoppers fattened their 39-32 edge with 1:46 left when Britt hit on back-to-back jumpers, stole the ball in the Racer backcourt for another score, and then set up a final score by James with another thief.

With due respect to Britt, all but one of his buckets in the half-ending rally were inside the five-foot mark, a fact MSU Coach Fred Overton remarked afterwards about the tempo of the action. "Their working the ball inside was one of the things which killed us," he said. "We had some streaks on our zone defense which worked well and forced them outside, but then we got weak a couple of times and it cost us."

After a solid first half of play, Woolard was called with his fourth foul just 45 seconds from the second tip-off, reserve freshman guard Paul Smith entered the lineup to spark the visitors within seven, 50-43. He fed senior guard Jeff Hughes for one jumper and then passed to junior forward Zach Blasingame, who made his shot and the following free throw when fouled by WKU's Terry.

Murray's closest position in the half came almost two minutes later after Williams had bombed in a shot to make it 52-47, before Coach Richards called time to regroup the 'Toppers.

Then the hosts outscored MSU, 8-2, during another three minute blitz to grab a suddenly huge 60-49 edge with 10:38 showing. "They made the higher percentage of the shots when they had to than we could," Coach Overton reflected, "and the outside shots we put up just did not fall when they posted their lead."

Western's bench strength paid off midway through the final half as the final statistics showed the 'Toppers had eight players with more than 15 minutes of action, the bulk of which came in the last nine minutes. In contrast, four MSU starters contributed at least 33 minutes each.

With 8:18 left, Western had a 66-53 edge and for the next two minutes, the squads swapped goals and free throws.

Then the Racers hit a cold streak which saw them out-pointed 11-4 as only Woolard could find the range as he connected on a pair of jumpers before fouling out with 2:14 remaining and MSU down 83-65.

For the contest four of MSU's starters averaged near 40 per cent from the field with Hughes' four of nine floor attempts being the best Racer effort as the entire team finished by hitting 24 of 64 for 37.5 per cent. WKU, meanwhile had James with 12 of 18 and Terry with his eight of 10, enroute to its 39 of 80 attempts for a 48.8 percentage.

Murray finished with 20 of 25 free throws (80 per cent), while WKU connected on 14 of 18 (77.8 per cent). The 'Toppers had the rebound edge, 47-43, but lost the turnover war, 20-14.

The Racers face Middle Tennessee State's Blue Raiders tonight in the Sports Arena in a must game if they are to keep any title hopes alive in the yet-undecided OVC race.

Lady Racers Get Easy Victory

Lately it seems as if Coach Dew Drop Rowlett gets a pleasant surprise from her bench.

Last week it came from Sandy Macovik, who played in place of her injured sister Sindy. Sandy came off the bench and scored 24 points and grabbed a record high 26 rebounds in her very first start of the season.

This week, reserve guard Denise Griffith poured in 17 points as the Lady Racers pounced upon the Kentucky Wesleyan Panthers 97-33.

The game was never in doubt for the Ladies as they rushed to a 45-15 lead at the half.

Coach Rowlett used her subs frequently and every Lady on the roster scored. Along with Griffith's 17 points, Sindy Macovik contributed 16 while Vickie Dillingham had 11. Jana Jones added 10 to round out the double figure scoring for the Lady Racers.

For the Panthers, Rachel Strauss led all scorers with 20 points. Nancy Steward added six.

The Lady Racers will be putting their 9-5 record on the line tonight as they host Middle Tennessee.

Earlier in the season, Middle defeated the Lady Racers by a 68-55 margin. Game time will be 5:15 p.m. at the MSU fieldhouse.

Hilltoppers And Governors To Meet In Clarksville Tonight

Austin Peay and Western Kentucky, both 5-1 in the Ohio Valley Conference, meet in a showdown at Clarksville, Tenn., tonight for first place in the OVC standings.

"I'd say the pressure is on us," said Austin Peay coach Lake Kelly. "At the start of the season, most people felt we had to win in Clarksville and Western had to win in Bowling Green."

"That's pretty much the way things stand right now. So, it's our turn first; we're at home and we have to win."

Western coach Jim Richards said playing Austin Peay anytime is a challenge.

"Both teams are going to be under added pressure because of the standings," Richards said. "It should be a heck of a game."

In other conference matchups tonight, Morehead, 3-3, hosts Tennessee Tech, 3-3; Middle Tennessee, 2-4, is at Murray, and East Tennessee, 15, visits Eastern Kentucky.

Western Kentucky, with four players in double figures, routed Murray 92-68 Saturday night. Wilson James led the Hilltoppers with 26 points and 11 rebounds. Jessie Williams was the top scorer for Murray with 22 points and the game's top rebounder with 13.

Austin Peay was able to get only one player, Charlie Fishback, in double figures in the Governor's 61-55 win over Middle Tennessee Saturday night.

Middle Tennessee's defense held Fishback to 16 points and the Governor's leading scorers for the season, Sam Drummer and Otis Howard, to 8 and 9 points, respectively.

Carl Brown scored 10 of his 26 points in a nine-minute span in the second half Saturday night to rally Eastern Kentucky to a 92-87 come from behind win over Tennessee Tech. Frank Jones of Tech was the game's leading scorer with 32.

East Tennessee broke a ninegame losing streak Saturday night and picked up its first OVC victory, defeating Morehead 85-77 behind Charlie Stuart's 28 points.

The triumph occurred just four days after East Tennessee coach Leroy Fisher announced his resignation effective at the end of the season.

Try For Second

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The Louisville Blades will try for second place in the Midwest American Hockey League when they take on Findlay next weekend at Clarksville, Ind.

Louisville routed Columbus 11-2 in hockey action last Saturday night at the Kentucky Sports Center in Clarksville.

John Garvey drove in four goals for the Blades in addition to three goals each by Mike Cole and Ron Petaja.

The win gave the Blades an 8-8-2 record, putting them one point in front of Columbus for third place in the league. Columbus is 8-10-1.

BETTER DO SOMETHING—Bob Wilder of the Tigers didn't have long to make up his mind what he was going to do in this situation. If he had waited to come down the floor, he would have been out of bounds. Wilder managed to throw the ball back to one of his teammates.

Racer Grid Schedule Has One New Team

Racers Drop Dual Meet But Jacobs Ties Or Breaks Three Marks At Western

By MIKE BRANDON
Ledger & Times Sports Editor
Cuthbert Jacobs cost the McDonald Hamburger Chain quite a bit of money Saturday afternoon. And the fans at Macomb, Ill., loved it as Jacobs put on his show and treated them to some free food.

McDonald's has a deal where anytime a new fieldhouse record is broken or tied in an indoor track meet, the fans can take their tickets and have them punched for a free quarter-pounder, an order of fries and a Coke.

Western Illinois escaped with a 66-65 win over Murray State in the dual meet, the fans went home satisfied and not hungry and Jacobs made a lot of friends, except maybe at McDonald's which was quite busy after the game as nine records were either broken or tied.

Jacobs' finest performance came in the 300-yard dash. First of all, for fans who aren't really up on track, we should point out the indoor facility at Western Illinois is tough. The track is 220 yards and it has very tight corners, making it almost impossible to achieve outstanding times. Almost impossible, that is, unless there is an outstanding, world-class performer like Jacobs on hand.

You might say Jacobs made "hamburgers" out of everyone in the 300. The fans knew Jacobs was close to a record as he was so far out in front of everyone else it was ridiculous.

"They announced before the race that the holder of the 300 record was running and so the crowd was on its feet the whole time and cheering for me to get them a free meal," Jacobs said.

"They had some pretty good guys running in the 300. One of the guys was a 9.3 sprinter so I knew I couldn't take any chances. He had the inside lane so I just went out and tried to get out in front."

Jacobs did just that. By the time he crossed the tape, he was 25 yards out in front, which is unbelievable considering there are only 300 yards in the race.

He finished with a record time of 30.6, breaking the record of 31.7 he had set there in 1973. Just to show how far out in front Jacobs was, second place was taken in 32.5. Murray got a third-place effort from Stanford "Little Joe" Patrick who finished in 32.6. Jacobs tied a record in the 440 as he finished in 50.1. That record was set in 1973 by Fred Sowerby of Murray State, now coach of the D.C. Striders' Track Club.

Third in the race for Murray was Tom Mracek who crossed with a 51.9.

"I was just fighting for position in the 440," Jacobs said.

"The curves are so tight on the track plus you have to go around it twice. I was just running easy and loose and only to win. I had no idea I was close to a record. There have been a lot of good sprinters run up here and yet nobody has ever broken 50 seconds."

Larry Jones of Northeast Missouri, who is a national champion, and T-Bird Turner have all been on this track and they know how tough it is," Jacobs added.

Jacobs was involved in another record, that being in the mile relay where he ran a leg.

Murray took first in a time of 3:24.5, breaking the old record of 3:26.1 set last year by Northeast Missouri.

Though Murray took first place in 10 of the 15 events, there were several reasons the Racers lost the meet. Western Illinois swept all three places in the shot put, as the Racers had nobody entered.

Distance runner Bob Arnett hurt his knee last week in a meet at Illinois and failed to make the trip. Had he been in the two-mile run, Murray would have swept that event and won the meet by a point.

Murray had several other records in the meet, besides all the ones by Jacobs.

In the 880-yard run, Dennis Mabbitt finished first with a 1:57 for a new record. In the 600, Lester Flax blistered the track in 1:12.7 for a new record, knocking .7 second off the old mark. Also, Sylvester Onyekwe, a sophomore from Nigeria, continued his improvement as he was third in the 600 with a 1:14.2.

In the two-mile run, sophomore Brian Rutter of Murray State won with a new record of 9:10.8 while Ralph Cheek of the Racers was second in 9:33.5. The old record was set in 1973 by Murray's Sam Torres who had a 9:11.8.

In the only other record set by Murray in the meet, Kevin Caines set not only a new fieldhouse record but also a new Murray State indoor mark as he won the triple jump with a 48-7. Teammate

Hewitt Named To Board Of Coaches

Murray State golf coach Buddy Hewitt has been named to the Golf World's board of coaches to select the magazines Top 10 collegiate teams, during March, April, May, and June.

Hewitt is one of 10 coaches in the United States on the board. He is also a member of the NCAA selection committee for District Three, which chooses teams to play in the NCAA tournament.

Hewitt, the only golf coach the University has had, was named to the post in 1961. His Racers have won one Ohio Valley Conference championship, finished second seven times, and third three times. His 1967 team was runner-up in the NCAA college-division tournament. His 1971 team played in the NCAA University championships. Fourteen of his players have represented Murray in the NCAA.

An outstanding golfer, Hewitt has won several tournaments in the Murray area and has been match-play champion of the Murray Country Club eight times.

New Record

McDOWELL, Ky. (AP) — Geri Grigsby scored 63 points to lead a school record girls' basketball scoring effort in McDowell's 146-21 romp over Feds Creek.

The Saturday night win for McDowell High topped the school's previous record 135 points in a game.

Patmore Chatham was second in 48-4½, also breaking the old mark.

In other field events: Norman deCaussin of the Racers was third in the pole vault with 13-6, Carl Heissler was third in the high jump with 6-4, Patmore Chatham won the long jump with 23-7½ and Kevin Caines was third with 22-2.

In the remaining track events, Martyn Brewer won the mile with a 4:24.5 while Mike Vowell was third in 4:28.6. In the 70-yard high hurdles, Tom Potter was third with a 9.2.

Brewer made himself a double winner on the day as he won the 1,000-yard run with a 2:17.9 while Mracek was third in 2:20.8.

Givens Paces Wildcats To Win Over Ole Miss

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — services of forward Rick Robey, who is sidelined with his second knee injury of the season. Kentucky at least filled Robey's spot on the roster by adding 6-5 Derrick Ramsey, a quarterback on the Wildcat football team last year. Ramsey played briefly against Ole Miss and failed to score.

Suffice it to say that Givens, who had hit just 32 per cent of his shots in three games prior to Saturday's 89-61 win over Mississippi, got rid of many frustrations with a 28-point performance that included 13-of-18 field goal shooting.

"I was trying not to worry about my shooting," Givens said. "That helped me a lot."

The Rebels are also a very frustrated club, having lost all eight SEC starts so far and 13 of 17 games overall. Kentucky is 9-7 overall and its 4-4 SEC record keeps alive at least its mathematical chances of successfully defending its league title.

Facing must-win situations in every game, Kentucky meets LSU tonight in Lexington and then collides with once-beaten SEC leader Tennessee in a nationally televised encounter next Saturday in Knoxville.

Kentucky must face the rest of its uphill battle without the

Cold-Shooting Tigers Ripped 60-48 By Tough Henry County

By MIKE BRANDON
Ledger & Times Sports Editor

There used to be a little section in Mad Magazine that went like this: You know you're in trouble when: you take your date out for dinner and suddenly realize you've forgotten your billfold.

The same little section in Mad Magazine held true for Murray High Saturday night at Paris when the Tigers lost 60-48 to the powerful Henry County Patriots.

The Tigers knew they were in trouble when:

—They couldn't hit the broad side of a barn door, from the field and from the free throw line.

—They couldn't get a rebound, even if they made a down payment on one.

—They scored only 18 points in the first half.

—Their offensive rebounding power and our lack of hitting free throws cost us the game," Murray High Coach Cary Miller said.

There were several more things that cost Murray High the game. Number one, Henry County had a better team. Number two, Henry County wanted the win more than did the Tigers.

Henry County, which had lost a tough game at home Friday night to powerful Clarksville, came into the contest sporting a healthy 17-5 season record.

It didn't take long for most of the Murray fans to realize the Tigers would soon drop to 8-5 while the Patriots would go to 18-5.

"We were flat and just could never get started," Miller said.

"They just outplayed us. I think a lot of it though was from having the long bus ride back from Ballard Friday night and not getting in until so late," Miller added.

It looked like the Tigers never got in at all. They were a little more than flat. Mashed might be a better word.

In addition to playing one of their worst games of the year, the Tigers picked one of the best teams to have the poor night against. The Patriots have been ranked in the Top Ten in Tennessee all season and are certainly better than any team in the First Region.

Murray never led in the game. It was tied at two and six in the opening period. One of the turning points of the game came at the buzzer of the opening period when Roosevelt Allen fired in a 40-footer to give the Patriots a 12-8 lead.

That brought the huge

Patriot crowd on to its feet, where they remained until the two teams came out for the second period tip-off.

Once more in the game, the score was tied, that being at 12 apiece. After that, it was all Henry County. At an intermission, the Patriots had pulled out to a 25-18 lead.

The second half was actually quite boring. The teams played on more or less even terms in the third period but it never really got close enough for the Tiger fans to get excited and it never really got to be enough of a run-away for the Patriot fans to scream. Going into the last period, Henry County held a 39-30 cushion.

The closest Murray got in the game came at the 6:33 mark of the fourth period when 6-4 junior Andrea Perry crashed the boards for an offensive putback and was fouled. That made it 41-35 but Perry missed the free throw.

Over the next three minutes, the Patriots outscored the Tigers 9-2 and it was all over.

Murray High shot 60 times in the game, hitting just 20 for a miserable .333 pace. From the charity stripe, the Tigers made only eight of 22.

Henry County hit on 27 of 54 field goal attempts in the contest for an even 50 per cent.

Raymond Sims, who was about the only bright spot the Tigers had all night, pumped home 18 points to pace the Murray scoring. Bob Wilder was the only other Tiger to hit twin figures as he added 11.

Henry County had three players in double digits. It will be another "Top Ten" team for the Tigers as they visit powerful Cairo Tuesday night before returning home to host mighty Christian County Friday.

Spirits Look Good On Paper And On Court

By The Associated Press
Joe Mullaney knows what he has to do as coach of the Spirits of St. Louis — get a bunch of fine individual talents to blend together as a unit.

"The team looks very strong on paper," says Mullaney, who took over the coaching reins after Rod Thorn was fired Friday. "It possesses fine talent. The big thing we have to do is get everybody to play together."

Mullaney had a rough debut Saturday night, when the San Antonio Spurs drubbed the Spirits 118-96 in San Antonio. But in a rematch at St. Louis Sunday night, the Spirits came out on top 108-104.

Elsewhere in the ABA, the Kentucky Colonels defeated the Denver Nuggets 98-94 and the New York Nets beat the Indiana Pacers 116-106.

Marvin Barnes led the Spirits' victory with 23 points. His basket with 50 seconds left made the score 105-99. Rookie Henry Ward hit a three-point goal to keep the Spurs alive, but a three-point play by Don Chaney with 16 second left put it out of reach.

Rookie M. L. Carr and Ron

Boone added 16 points each for St. Louis and Caldwell Jones had 15 points and 16 rebounds. George Gervin and James Silas scored 27 points apiece for the Spurs.

"It was not as smooth as I would have liked it, but we're headed in the right direction," said Mullaney of the victory.

Colonels 98, Nuggets 94
Kentucky led by eight points late in the game, but two baskets and a pair of free throws by Dan Issel helped Denver close to 95-94 with 46 seconds to play. But Louie Dampier of Kentucky was fouled after a scramble for a loose ball, hit the first of two free throws with eight seconds left, then missed the second. Ron Thomas followed it in for the clinching points.

The victory was Kentucky's seventh in its last nine outings. Issel led all scorers with 37 points. Artis Gilmore tallied 33 for Kentucky.

Nets 116, Pacers 106
Brian Taylor scored 32 points and Julius Erving contributed 29 points and 18 rebounds to lead the Nets to their eighth victory over Indiana in nine meetings this season.

FARM REVIEW & FORECAST

Farm Bureau Delegates Call For Balanced Federal Budget

ST. LOUIS—Voting delegates of the member State Farm Bureaus to the 57th annual meeting of the American Farm Bureau Federation have called for Constitutional amendments to require that the federal budget be balanced and that federal taxes be limited to a "realistic percentage" of the gross national product.

The delegates also urged "that no salary increase be granted to any elected federal official (members of Congress, President and Vice-President) until the federal budget is balanced."

The delegates stated, "We believe the best methods of controlling inflation is the elimination of federal deficits. We believe that an amendment to the constitution should be adopted to require that the Congress operate on a balanced budget each year, and that only in extreme emergencies could this requirement be waived with concurrence of the House of Representatives, Senate, and Executive Branch of government.

"The economic stability of America requires a reduction in the inflationary level of government spending. Both the Congress and the Executive Branch must accept major responsibility in this area," the anti-inflation policy resolution stated.

Still smarting from the Administration's moratorium on U.S. grain sales to the Soviet Union last fall, the delegates voiced strong opposition to "restrictions imposed by government on the sale of agricultural products in world markets."

"Decisions affecting agricultural exports," the resolution stated, "should be made with full participation by the Secretary of Agriculture. We deplore such decisions being made by labor leaders and government agencies such as the Department of State."

"Agricultural exports must not be held hostage in the name of political expediency or foreign policy. Foreign buyers of U.S. farm products should be encouraged to make long-term commitments for these commodities through arrangements with producers or the private trade."

The resolution further stated that embargoes and moratoriums on agricultural exports only serve to inhibit food production and antagonize foreign customers.

"The American farmer," the resolution stated, "if not restricted by government controls, will continue to meet the food needs of the nation and a large portion of the world."

Full agricultural production in the United States is largely dependent on both domestic sales and expanding export sales of farm commodities, the resolution pointed out.

The delegates urged Congress to enact legislation to prohibit transportation strikes, including dock strikes. "The judicial route should be followed to force labor to fulfill its contracts with shipping suppliers in loading ships with export items," the resolution stated.

The delegates called for major amendments in the estate and gift tax provisions of the Internal Revenue Code, including: (1) an increase in the standard estate tax exemption to reflect the effects of inflation since the present $60,000 exemption was set in 1942; (2) a substantial increase in the marital deductions to minimize the problem of the so-called "widows' tax"; and (3) provisions for basing the value of farmland and open spaces at levels reflecting their current use rather than their highest possible use.

Immediate passage of such legislation is necessary to allow farms and small businesses to be passed from one generation to another.

In another resolution, the delegates recommended that new government farm program legislation not be enacted until 1977.

The current government farm program, the Agriculture and Consumer Protection Act of 1973, extends through the 1977 crops for wheat, feed grains, cotton and manufacturing milk. Basic legislation which covers rice, peanuts, tobacco and long staple cotton has no expiration date.

The delegates reaffirmed the Federation's commitment to creating "a climate which will enable agriculture to operate under the market price system."

Other policy resolutions adopted by the voting delegates, called for:

—Curbs on federal regulatory agencies.

—Welfare reform.

—Rejection of proposed increases in the minimum wage.

—The use of agricultural chemicals and drugs "unless scientific evidence shows conclusively that the benefits associated with use are exceeded by the risk to man or the environment."

Elsewhere in the 110-page report, the voting delegates set forth detailed recommendations for the Federation's stand on natural resources, international affairs, transportation, farm credit, agricultural research, health and education.

J.B. Benner Makes Final Tobacco Buying Trip To West Ky. Markets

J.B. Benner, Dutch tobaccoist and well-known to fired tobacco growers of Kentucky and Tennessee, is making his last official buying trip to this area for the purpose of purchasing his firm's leaf requirements from the 1975 tobacco crop.

Benner joined the firm of De Erven De Wed. J. Van Nelle, a major Dutch manufacturer of coffee, tea, and tobacco, as a fifteen year old boy, and upon retirement next August will celebrate fifty years with this company.

While this visit will mark his fortieth trip to the United States, his first visit to West Kentucky and Tennessee took place in 1952 when he became responsible for the selection of leaf tobacco to be used in Van Nelle's famous shag, roll-your-own cigarettes. His visits here have continued a relationship with a Western Kentucky tobacco firm which was established by W.B. Kennedy in 1898 and continued by his sons, W.B. Kennedy, Jr. and Clarence E. Kennedy. The firm is now known as Kennedy Leaf Tobacco Co., located in Mayfield, Kentucky. James W. Marvin serves as managing director.

Though the export trade for fired tobacco suffered a severe blow during World War II, it has now regained a healthy condition. Much credit can be given to Mr. Benner and the firm of Van Nelle because of their desire to maintain a high quality product by continuing to supply their customers with the unique flavor of Kentucky tobacco.

In the years he has been charged with the responsibility of selecting high quality leaf for his company, Benner has paid to growers in Western Kentucky and Tennessee, through the Kennedy firm, over $60 million dollars.

In pursuit of additional types of tobacco Mr. Benner has made regular visits to the Carolina's, Virginia, South Africa, Italy, Poland and Indonesia.

During his visits here (on two occasions he has been accompanied by his wife) he has established many friends among the people of Kentucky and Tennessee. He has been honored as a Kentucky Colonel. An honorary citizen of Murray, and made a Duke of Paducah.

After retirement he will continue to make his home in Rotterdam where the Benners will remain close to their two sons, two daughters and two grandchildren.

Benner will be succeeded by G. Van Der Poel, a resident of Hilversum, Holland. Mr. Van Der Poel, who has a wide knowledge of the tobacco trade, comes to Van Nelle from a tobacco brokerage firm.

Lunches eaten away from home can take quite a slice from the food budget, UK Extension specialists in consumer economics point out.

Even modest lunches chosen from a restaurant menu at $2.50 a day add up to more than $600 a year over 240 working days—and part of this may go for empty calories such as beverages, tidbits, or desserts. A savings of just $1.00 per lunch can add up to $240 a year—and eating about 200 fewer calories at each lunch can result in weight loss of some 12 pounds during the year!

The Lettermans stated "We feed about 16-18 lbs. Wayne High Flow while the cows are being milked and a full feed of corn silage top dressed with 1½ lbs Wayne 42% Dairy Supplement per head in the lot. ## The Championship Tractor Pull

THE TRACTOR PULL

The enjoyment of farm time at the National Farm Machinery Show is double-barreled with the Championship Tractor Pulls.

Getting stronger at each NFMS since its first year in 1969, the 1976 pulls will pay off a whopping record $54,250 in prize money to top drivers in 11 classes. And the last two nights of pulls are already sold out. That's about 32,000 seats.

This year 354 entries have been accepted from across the country, and many of them have competed here before. It's the largest indoor tractor pull in the United States, attracting close to 60,000 fans. After spending the day checking out farm exhibits, fans are more than ready to yell for their favorites (sometimes tractors more than drivers) to pull a sled of dead weight to the end of a 300-foot red clay track. There will be plenty of those to root for, from the women driver minority to state favorites.

One Kentuckian finished first last year, Mark Rone of Owensboro, who won the 1975 7,000 Pound Hot Rod class, breaking a seven-way thru-pull tie. Winning trophies are donated by Production Credit Association of Shelbyville, Ky.

Announcer for the pulls will be Jack Crowner, a popular radio and TV farm reporter on Louisville's WAVE Radio and TV in Louisville before taking a job last year with WMT Radio and TV, WAVE's sister station in Cedar Rapids, Iowa. Crowner is Farm Service Director. Crowner, one of the top farm broadcasters in the U.S., has spiced every NFMS tractor pull with his booming voice and good-natured sense of humor.

As in the past, all competitors' tractors will be on display in the 2-1/2 acre indoor Pavilion adjacent to the West Wing every day during the farm show, another free attraction.

All entries will be weighed in the west section of the West Wing, except the 1,000 Pound Garden Class, which will be to the rear of Freedom Hall Coliseum. Drivers can weigh in from 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. any day of the show.

Official classes and schedules are:

Wed., Feb. 11, 6:30 p.m.—1,700 Pound Garden Modified, 9,200 Pound Stock, 5,000 Pound Modified.

Thurs., Feb. 12, 6:30 p.m.—1,500 Pound Garden Modified, 5,200 Pound Stock, 7,000 Pound Modified.

Fri., Feb. 13, 6:30 p.m.—1,000 Pound Garden, 12,000 Pound Stock, 9,000 Pound Modified.

Sat., Feb. 14, 7:00 p.m.—7,200 Pound Stock, 15,000 Pound Stock.

There were so many entries in the 1,000 Pound Garden

Tractor Class - 90 - that an elimination pull-off will be held at 9 a.m. Feb. 13. Only the families of the drivers will be allowed in the audience. The top 20 or 25 will qualify for the finals that night.

Tractor Pull tickets are $4.50 and $6.00. The address for tickets (certified check or money order only) is: National Farm Machinery Show Tickets, c/o Kentucky Fair and Exposition Center, P. O. Box 21179, Louisville, Ky. 40221.

Some Classes Of Beans In Very Large Supply

While the overall production figure for the dry bean crop is down 15 per cent from last year's record crop, certain classes of dry beans are in excessively large supply.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) reports pinto beans, pinks, small reds, kidney beans, and Garbanzo beans all topping last year's production figures. Marketing analysts with USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service report an upward movement in production figures in the colored bean classes ranging from 9 to 41 per cent higher than last year's figures.

Where More Means Less
Although the pinto bean crop is 34 per cent higher than last year, growers are receiving 50 per cent less for their beans. This year grower prices on pintos are $14 per hundred-pound bag as compared to $28 a year earlier.

Pink bean production is up 12 per cent from last year's figures, but grower prices for pinks have dropped 39 per cent. Prices for small reds have dropped 29 per cent; kidney beans, 19 per cent; and Garbanzo beans, 10 per cent.

Know Your Beans By Their Colors
Pintos are beige colored and speckled and of the same species as the kidney and red beans. Pink and red beans are just that. Kidney beans are a mahogany red color and are kidney shaped, while Garbanzos are light beige and more round in shape.

Buying and Storing
The same buying rules apply to all classes of dry beans. Since they are generally packaged in cellophane or in boxes with see-through windows, look for beans that have a bright uniform color and uniform size. They should be free of all visible defects as cracked seed coats and foreign material.

Store them properly—in a dry, cool place. Once a package has been opened, store beans in a container with a tight-fitting lid. Treat them right and they will serve you well both in keeping and eating power.

Point-of-Sale Material
Information can be obtained from William Brewster, President, National Dry Bean Council, P. O. Box 2069, Saginaw, Michigan 48605.

Snowstorms Expected To Be Out Of Kentucky Overnight

By The Associated Press
Snowstorms that jammed traffic on several central and eastern Kentucky highways were expected to clear out of the state overnight, according to the National Weather Service.

The weather service issued travelers' advisories for the eastern half of the state as the storms blew in Sunday night.

A spokesman at State Police Headquarters said many minor accidents were reported in Central and Eastern Kentucky, including several in the Richmond area. He said secondary roads in the eastern half of the state were slick and hazardous and interstate highways were slick in spots.

A State Police dispatcher at Elizabethtown said "people keep sliding off the side" of highways in that area.

The National Weather Service said radar indicated clear skies over Western Kentucky by 10:30 p.m. EST. A few snow flurries were

Atkins Endorses Measure To Require Uniforms Audits

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — State Auditor George Atkins has endorsed a House-passed bill that would require him to develop a uniform, standard procedure for auditing each of Kentucky's county officials.

In a letter to Sen. Daisy Thaler, D-Louisville, chairman of the Senate Committee on Counties and Special Districts, Atkins asked for prompt Senate action on the bill.

It was approved overwhelmingly by the House last week.

Atkins said the measure, HB 67, would guarantee that each county official "will be audited equally and equitably without fear of undue harassment or preferential treatment."

The state auditor said the standardized audit procedure would "streamline" the audit process for state field auditors, thereby giving them more time to do more audits, Atkins said.

The measure would give the state auditor the authority to draw up standardized guidelines.

Workshop Scheduled In London

An Elementary Education Summer Workshop in London will be offered for the third successive year by Murray State University June 14-July 13.

Mrs. June Smith, associate professor of child studies and the instructor for the program of study, said the enrollment deadline for graduate and advanced undergraduate students who plan to participate in the study-tour is March 15.

However, since the enrollment will be limited, she is urging people who are interested in the workshop to contact her immediately for more details and to enroll.

Participants may earn either three or six hours of credit in the workshop, which is a study of British infant and junior schools from pre-kindergarten through the eighth grade level. She said the program of study will be of particular interest to early childhood and elementary school teachers who are interested in the British Open School.

Credit is being offered for Elementary Education 506 and or 526 for graduate or advanced undergraduate students and for Elementary Education 604, 605 and-or 607 for graduate students only.

Three travel options are available following the program of study in London. The cost of the workshop, in addition to tuition fees, ranges from about $1,300 to $1,600, depending upon the travel option selected.

Mrs. Smith said students will be accepted on a first-come, first-served basis. For a reservation or further information, interested persons may write, visit, or call: Mrs. June Smith, Department of Child Studies, Room 351, Education Building, Murray State University, Murray, Ky., 42071, (502) 762-3862 or 762-3827.

Several Items Face Congress Prior To 10-Day Lincoln Birthday Recess

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress this week takes up natural gas deregulation, voter registration by postcard and rice legislation before beginning its first recess of the 1976 session.

The recess, to begin this Friday and run for 10 days, is the traditional Lincoln's Birthday holiday to allow Republicans to attend party meetings over the country.

President Ford was to confer today with some members of Congress about the prospects for ending natural price controls, an abolition that the Ford administration supports. Rep. Bob Krueger, D-Tex., says he will try to bring the decontrol bill up on the House floor Tuesday when the lawmakers consider emergency legislation designed to cope with expected natural gas shortages.

The emergency bill was designed to permit industrial users to buy supplies at the price permitted on intrastate shipments, which is much higher than the regulated interstate quotation. Krueger's amendment would provide for a five-year phaseout of federal regulation. This amendment is similar to one adopted in the Senate last year.

When it takes up rice legislation, the Senate will vote Tuesday on an attempt to shut off debate on a controversial bill revising the federal program long in effect for the nation's rice growers. The measure would put into effect a program similar to that now used for wheat, feed grains and cotton.

It would permit unrestricted planting of rice but would establish a target price of $8 per hundred pounds. Federal payments would be made to growers if the market falls below the target price.

Senators from old established rice-growing states oppose the bill, contending it is unfair to small farmers.

The Senate plans to act today on two consumer protection bills.

One would expand the Truth in Lending Act to make sure that consumers are furnished information about the leasing of durables, such as automobiles, so they can decide whether leasing is better than buying.

The other broadens the Consumer Credit Protection Act to ban discrimination in credit transactions on account of age, race, color, religion, national origin, or receipt of public assistance.

As originally passed in 1974, the law was aimed chiefly at discrimination against women.

The House is scheduled to take up Thursday a bill authorizing voter registration by postcard in federal elections. It is opposed by most Republicans. The Senate passed such a measure in the preceding Congress, over Republican objections, but it died in the House. This time the Senate is waiting to see what the House will do.

The House Judiciary Committee will hold its first drafting session Tuesday on gun-control legislation. Chairman Peter W. Rodino said he will try to restore to the measure a ban on handguns known as "Saturday night specials." This was knocked out of the bill in subcommittee.

The Senate Budget Committee will begin its study of President Ford's 1977 budget with a series of hearings this week at which administration officials will appear.

Kenton Suggests Vice-President's Office For Kentucky Gov. Carroll

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — While Gov. Julian Carroll steadfastly maintains he won't seek office again, Kentucky House Speaker William Kenton is touting him for vice president.

Kenton, a Lexington Democrat, suggested Sunday that Carroll is a prime prospect because he's drawn national attention recently on a number of topics, including legislative packages.

He told newsmen after a television panel show he had heard reports Carroll is being talked about by Democrats in Washington and elsewhere for the No. 2 spot nationally.

Actually, a presidential nominee chooses his running mate and the Democratic scramble is so confusing at the moment no one has any idea who will emerge as the nominee.

The governor last week reaffirmed an earlier vow that he would not seek office after his term expires in 1979.

"Well, he can be drafted, can't he?" the speaker said.

Kenton recently was elected house speaker with a hearty push from the state administration, which shunted aside Rep. Norbert Blume, D-Louisville, who had served two terms.

Kenton said Carroll's proposals to eliminate the bail bond industry in Kentucky and make sweeping reforms favoring consumers have attracted wide interest.

Yet to come are Carroll's

creation in public school courses on the theory of evolution.

Two more issues should come into the spotlight this week in the House and generate a considerable amount of debate.

On Wednesday the House Committee on Elections and Constitutional Amendments is expected to consider a resolution to rescind Kentucky's approval of the Equal Rights Amendment.

The ERA, which was approved by the 1972 General Assembly in special session, would prohibit the denial of rights on account of sex. It must be ratified by 50 states if it is to become part of the U.S. Constitution. Thirty-four states have ratified it so far, though two have voted to rescind their ratification.

It seems likely that the House committee will send the measure to the floor for a vote, where it is likely to provoke extensive debate—and could be carried.

However, some observers say the measure will have a hard time getting out of the Senate committee, and if it does, will have an equally hard time on the floor of that chamber.

The widely publicized bill that would abolish commercial bailbonding in Kentucky could also come up for a vote on the House floor this week. The administration bill was rushed through committee last week and recommended for passage. Representatives of bailbonding firms in Kentucky are, as would be expected, in strong opposition to the measure.

proposals for fighting crime and helping senior citizens, Kenton said.

"And he's getting ready to talk about major tax reform," the speaker added. "It's all in the budget message, but nobody noticed it."

The budget message last week contained a brief reference to tax proposals coming later, but no details.

On the "your government" program on WLEX, Kenton revealed his law partner is in the process of resigning as counsel for Johnson Bonding Co.

Even so, he said, he will not take a stand on the bail bond measure because legal canons continue to tie his law firm to Johnson in a confidential relationship.

Kenton could not be pinned down on whether he flatly favors or opposes Carroll's plan setting aside $8 million to help depositors of the defunct Prudential Building & Loan Co., in Louisville.

"I'm inclined to say there is some justification for us to proceed with it," he said.

Kenton said state compensation for private citizens has some precedent.

He cited a compensation fund—dealing with much smaller amounts—which each general assembly routinely approved.

He also cited the process under which citizens seek payments from the Board of Claims when they hold the state responsible for losses.

At the same time, Kenton said he is not sure if the state was responsible for the Prudential failure through lack of proper regulation.

The speaker said he expects little controversy over the governor's proposed $5.7 billion budget for the next two fiscal years.

Aside from the Prudential proposal, already under criticism, Kenton said only the severance tax question may produce real fireworks.

Coal-producing counties have been cut off in the new budget from their requested $25 million annual subsidy from the coal tax.

Carroll instead plans to create a $24 million annual fund for economic development to be shared by all counties.

CYCLE HAS RADAR

RENO, Nev. (AP) — There's an electronic genius in the Reno Police Department. He's motorcycle policeman Ken Tuffo, who figured out how to equip his motor bike with a radar unit.

Tuffo thinks it's the only radar-equipped police motorcycle in the country.

He says the device has doubled his ticket writing. He says some 250 motorists have "met" him since he turned the radar on.

Several Items Face Congress Prior To 10-Day Lincoln Birthday Recess

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress this week takes up natural gas deregulation, voter registration by postcard, and rice legislation before beginning its first recess of the 1970 session.

The recess, to begin this Friday and run for 10 days, is the traditional Lincoln's Birthday holiday to allow Republicans to attend party meetings over the country.

President Ford was to confer today with some members of Congress about the prospects for ending natural price controls, an abolition that the Ford administration supports. Rep. Bob regulation. This amendment is similar to one adopted in the Senate last year.

When it takes up rice legislation, the Senate will vote Tuesday on an attempt to shut off debate on a controversial bill revising the federal program long in effect for the nation's rice growers. The measure would put into effect a program similar to that now used for wheat, feed grains and cotton.

It would permit unrestricted planting of rice but would establish a target price of $8 per hundred pounds. Federal payments would be made to growers if the market falls below the target price. Senators from old established rice

As originally passed in 1974, the law was aimed chiefly at discrimination against women.

The House is scheduled to take up Thursday a bill authorizing voter registration by postcard in federal elections. It is opposed by most Republicans. The Senate passed such a measure in the preceding Congress, over Republican objections, but it died in the House. This time the Senate is waiting to see what the House will do.

However, some observers say the measure will have a hard time getting out of the Senate committee, and if it does, will have an equally hard time on the floor of that chamber.

The widely publicized bill that would abolish commercial bailbonding in Kentucky could also come up for a vote on the House floor this week. The administration bill was rushed through committee last week and recommended for passage. Representatives of bailbonding firms in Kentucky are, as would be expected, in strong opposition to the measure.

However, some observers say the measure will have a hard time getting out of the Senate committee, and if it does, will have an equally hard time on the floor of that chamber.

The widely publicized bill that would abolish commercial bailbonding in Kentucky could also come up for a vote on the House floor this week. The administration bill was rushed through committee last week and recommended for passage. Representatives of bailbonding firms in Kentucky are, as would be expected, in strong opposition to the measure.
